Why attend #ERICLeeds16

DELIVERY OF ROAD INFRASTRUCTURE

How can we improve its delivery model in a way that enables road authorities to ask for better solutions while providing industry with an optimal use of public resources and obtaining value for money?

ROAD SAFETY

How can we work together in order to identify practical solutions enabling Europe to achieve its ambitious target of a 50% cut in road fatalities?

ADAPTATION OF ROAD INFRASTRUCTURE

Technological changes and innovations in vehicle technology, road usage and road infrastructure mean that the road of the future will differ significantly from what it is today.

#ERICLeeds16 will bring together industry representatives, academics, policy makers, research institutes and road authorities from across the continent to network, engage and share their knowledge on the highways sector. Delivery, safety and adaptation of road infrastructure will be the key themes that run through the Congress; addressing technological changes, new delivery models and innovations in vehicle technology helping Europe to work together in achieving safer roads.

At a time when the UK Government is taking the lead in adopting innovative management and financing models for the delivery of road infrastructure, and with the establishment of Highways England as an independent body with a stipulated multi-annual budget, this Congress could not be a better environment to learn, interact and engage with the most influenced and key stakeholders within the industry.

With the current political agenda, it is even more important that businesses across Europe pull together to continue to move the industry forwards – this Congress presents an ideal opportunity for all those involved in Highways to do this.

Here are just a few key reasons why you should attend #ERICLeeds16

- Consumer knowledge from industry leaders, researchers and high-level decision makers
- Engage and network with other industry professionals, sharing your experience and knowledge
- Interact with a wide range of exhibitors, covering all sectors within the industry to generate potential business opportunities.
- Embrace the vibrant city of Leeds and enjoy an educational and historical conference atmosphere within the Royal Armouries.
